

Are You a Father Living With a Diagnosis of HIV+ ?

Queen's University Belfast and Positive Now are interested in hearing about your experiences as part of a research project exploring what it is like to be a father living with HIV in Ireland.

Taking part would involve a short, confidential interview with a researcher from Queen's University at a location that suits you.

If you are interested in participating please contact Lysander Preston (lysander@positivenow.ie) who will provide you with further information.
